

John Marshall Law School Micronesia Externship Program

Insurance Information

John Marshall Law School does not assume responsibility for financial risks associated with participation in its externship programs.

Students are encouraged to consider supplemental insurance options. Such insurance is not required by the Law School and must be purchased on an individual basis. Some of the most common types of supplemental insurance are:

Theft insurance - usually provides coverage for the replacement costs of items stolen while abroad, such as a passport or camera.

Baggage insurance - usually provides reimbursement for loss, theft, or damage to baggage or personal effects. Some baggage insurance policies also provide reimbursement of expenses incurred due to lost baggage such the purchase of clothes or other items.

Trip cancellation and trip interruption insurance - usually provides reimbursement for unused, non-refundable prepaid travel expenses in the event of trip cancellation or interruption.

Trip delay insurance - usually helps cover costs incurred if a trip is substantially delayed (generally by 12 hours or more).

Accidental death and dismemberment insurance - usually provides funds to the insured in the case of injury while traveling and funds to a beneficiary in the case of accidental death while traveling.

For detailed information on the terms, limitations and costs of these types of insurance, contact companies that sell such policies. Examples of companies that offer such insurance are listed below. Please note, however, that John Marshall Law School in no way endorses any of these companies and that the list is provided for information purposes only.
